Wildcats, Bulldogs To Clash In Georgia

Tough Georgia Team Favored To Win Tilt

By Tom Diskin
Kernel Sports Editor

Kentucky's exasperated Wildcats left last night bound for Athens, Ga., where they will tangle with the potent Georgia Bulldogs Saturday at Sanford Stadium. The Cracker State gridgers are favored to win by a one touchdown margin.

This contest will be Kentucky's second major test in the past two weeks. Last Saturday, the Lynxes were beaten by Ole Miss, 20-7, after they had whipped Xavier, 48-7, in the season's opener. The game will also be the Cats second S-C conflict of the current season.

Georgia Has 1-1 Record
The boys of the red clay country took Chattanooga, 14-7, in their lifter and then lost to a great North Carolina eleven last week, 21-14, after leading 7-0 at the half.

UK's Ocelots will be without their first-string center, Harry Ullinski, as a result of a shoulder injury first suffered in the Xavier game, then reinjured last week against the powerful Rebels. Coach Paul Bryant remarked that "we couldn't have lost another man on the squad that would have hurt us more."

The Cats three sophomore centers, Bob Wodtke, Roy Ford and Walt Yowarsky, is all expected to see action tomorrow in place of Ullinski.

Tougher Than Ole Miss
To make matters worse, Kentucky scouts report that Georgia is tougher than Mississippi. Said Coach Moseley, who witnessed the Bulldog-North Carolina clash last week, "Georgia's edge on us is enlarged by its reserve strength. They are three-teams deep in good replacements." Head Coach Paul Bryant predicts that Georgia and Tech will fight it out for the conference championship, with Ole Miss a good bet for runner-up honors.

Rauch Leads Bulldogs
Quarterback Johnny Rauch is the spearhead in the Georgia offense. Last season, in completing 110 passes, the Pennsylvanian became the fourth college player ever to gain the hundred mark in aerial connections for one season.

But Georgia is no one-man team. Far from it. At the halfback posts, UG Coach Wally Butts has those talented players as Lukie Brunson, a sophomore speedster from South Carolina, who made the first team as a freshman; Billy Henderson, a dangerous runner anytime; Eli Marich, the Chicago flash who raced 75 yards last week against the Tarheels for Georgia's first TD of the game; versatile Joe Geri, who great punting is credited with keeping the score down against Carolina; and last, but far from least, Floyd (Breezy) Reid, one of the biggest threats in the "Dog backfield. Reid, Marich, Henderson and Brunson all are exceptionally fast.

At fullback, Weepin' Wally can choose between powered Joe Tillit, a Canton, O., sophomore and Al Bodine, an 185-pound husky from Youngstown, Ohio. Both are experienced and hard runners.

Payne Tops In Line

Proficiency Exam Dates Announced

The foreign language proficiency examinations will be given November 3, 4, 5, and again January 12, 13, 14 this semester.

The examination must be passed before the final semester of the senior year. The details of the examination scheduled for November will be given in next week's edition of the Kernel.

Vets Club, SGA Favor Mid-Term Commencements

The Veterans Club has joined forces with SGA in the fight for winter commencements. The Veterans Club passed a resolution at their meeting, Oct. 4, stating that they recognized the need for, and strongly advocated, a commencement at the end of the first semester.

Sidney Neal, Veterans Club president, explained that his organization felt that the size of the fall semester class constituted a real need for a commencement in January.

Officers Elected
Four executive vacancies in the organization have been filled. The newly elected officers are Franz E. Ross, executive vice president; David Shropshire, vice president in charge of business; John Whisman, vice president in charge of publicity; and Elliott Jones, corresponding secretary.

Proposed constitutional amendments to take care of the change from the quarter system to the semester system will be presented at the next meeting.

Heating Experiment Responsible For Quadrangle Excavations

A device for taking heat from the earth and pumping it into homes is responsible for all the digging going on in front of the Engineering Quadrangle.

According to Prof. E. B. Penrod, head of the Mechanical Engineering department, the trenches are being dug in preparation for laying ground coils for the pump.

The objective of the experiment, said Prof. Penrod, is to see if the earth is a practical source of heat for the pump when used to heat small homes, and to make a careful study of transient heat flow through the ground.

He pointed out that while electricity performs most of the services in the home, it is generally too expensive for heating.

It has been found practical to use the earth, waste heat, the atmosphere, or even water, as a source of heat for the home. With an electrically driven pump, as much as four times the heat may be obtained as compared with direct electrical heating, he explained.

Approximately 500 feet of tubing will be laid underground for the pump, and will take up all that area being dug up.

The heat will be taken from the earth, say at 50 degrees, and pumped into the Mechanical Engineering laboratory in the quadrangle, said Prof. Penrod.

The moving parts of the pump will be placed in the laboratory, which is hoped may be heated entirely by heat from the earth. It is expected that once the pump is in operation about Jan. 1, the steam heat will be cut off in the laboratory and it will cut off in the laboratory and it will

Kyian Staff Appoints New Associate Editor

Anne Pardue, journalism senior from Frankfort, was named associate editor of the 1949 Kentuckian Monday night at a meeting of the editors in the Student Union Building.

Miss Pardue will fill the place left vacant by Sue Warren, who resigned to become news editor of the Kernel.

Letters In Disfavor

New students are reminded that there is a Student Government Association request not to wear a school letter other than the official University of Kentucky letter on campus.

This applies to all high school letters.

UK Students Eligible To Receive Awards

Students and faculty members of the University of Kentucky are eligible for three annual prizes of $500 each to be awarded by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies for outstanding scientific papers. It was announced Tuesday by Dr. L. A. Pardue, dean of the University Graduate School and representative on the institute council.

Competition for the awards is limited to the 19 universities of the institute. UK is one of the southern school members of the organization.

Papers are to be judged on the importance of the scientific research reported and the extent to which the subject matter relates to research being carried on by the Atomic Energy Commission laboratories in the Oak Ridge area.

The institute is sponsoring the awards to stimulate the development of scientific research and to provide additional recognition for outstanding work. Dean Pardue said.

Reporters To Meet Monday Afternoon

There will be a reporter's meeting at 4 p.m. Monday in the Kernel newsroom, Sue Warren, news editor announced.

All reporters for the Kernel are required to be present if they have no classes at that hour.

Greeks Serenade

The Greeks got this year's serenading underway when the Delta Zetas and Delta Tau Deltas made the rounds Wednesday night.

One of the largest crowds in recent times gathered in the Alumni Gym as SuKy Selected the new cheer leaders for the '48-'49 season.

Judges in the contest were Mrs. Revell Estill Shaw and Maurice Clay of the University, Mrs. Runelle Foster of Lafayette High School, Charles Whaley, president of SuKy, and Janice Stille and Nancy Potts, SuKy members.

Forty-four participants led the crowd in UK cheers.

Plans Announced For Fall Retreat Of 'Y' Cabinets

The annual fall retreat of the YMCA and YWCA cabinets will begin tomorrow at Camp Otonka on the Kentucky River.

The retreat will end Sunday, according to Mr. Bart Peak, director of "Y" activities.

Mr. Peak said that campus problems and things of interest in the lives of students would be of primary importance in the discussion at the retreat.

The "Y" program for the coming year will also be analyzed and further plans will be made.

Song and athletic contests have been planned by "Y" members. Interested students who are not on the "Y" Cabinet may attend the annual retreat if they will notify the "Y" office, SUB, not later than 4 p.m., Friday, Mr. Peak said.

Actor Will Speak To Lunch Club

Charles Coburn, movie actor currently working on the film "San Francisco," will speak to the Lunch Club today in room 205 of the Student Union Building.

Students who are not members of the club may hear Mr. Coburn speak at 12:30. If the room designated for the actor's talk is too small to accommodate the audience, the ballroom will be used.

The celebrated actor will be introduced by Sue Warren, vice-president in charge of programs, and Dean Sarah B. Holmes will be a guest of the club.

Born in Savannah, Ga., Mr. Coburn became the manager of the Savannah Theater at the age of 18. When he was 22, the actor began his professional stage career and played in numerous stock companies. He often co-starred with his wife in his early days.

Mr. Coburn appeared in his first movie in 1937, and won an Academy Award in 1944 for the best supporting male actor of the year.

Wallace J. Fox, Ever wonder who the kids with the loaded larynxes and terrific tonils are? Those guys and gals who wrap their amplifiers around your ears and extract exuberantly loud responses from the stands? In other words, the cheerleaders!

Well, there's twelve of the zip-boom-bah boys and girls—eight regulars and four alternates. All are kept in voice by Janice Stille, a cheer-leading veteran of three years at Lafayette High and two more seasons right here on Stoll Field's fifty-yard line.

Cheerleaders Razed
Incidentally, according to Janice, the razing they took over their southern accents was terrific!

Bobbie Dean Yates of the short curly locks and bright smile is a freshman alternate. Her rah-rah's have two years experience behind them at Lafayette.

Charley Wise knows what it is to hear the crowd's roars from the floor. His crew-cut is an outgrowth of two years as a first stringer on Henry Clay's basketball team. He's a regular and adds a dribble-boy viewpoint to the squad. He is also a Sigma Chi.

Fort Knox immigrant Philip Kingsbury alternates. He lives in the Scott Street Barracks.

Finally comes regular Bill McClure, Henderson sophomore. He belongs to Alpha Gamma Rho.

There they are—that rowdy, raucous, rousing bunch that do their frantic caper-cutting all during the athletic season. We wouldn't be without them, even if they are right at our throats!

Lexington Represented

A trim little blonde, Ann O'Bannon, can turn as shapely a cartwheel as ever seen in a college coliseum. An Alpha Gam, and a regular member of the squad, she hails from Lexington, where she had previous experience on the University High field.

Brunette Fatty Wilkinson, another regular and a freshman did her previous yips, sprints, and shags on Henry Clay's side-lines.

Two Phi Taus, both from Louisville, who made the squad—one as an alternate, the other as a regular—arc Tom Faulkner and Ben Jackson. You'll see Ben as the reg, and Tom as the alternate.

"Topper" Davis, another regular, and no relation to Thorne's Smith's ghost-provoker, is a Pewee Valley boy. He belongs to Alpha Gamma Rho.

Two Betties On Squad
Two more regulars are Betty Thomas and Bettie Massey. Betty of the Thomas clan, springs from Louisville, while Mrs. Massey's Bettie comes from Lexington. Both flex their lung-muscles in the best collegiate fashion.

The leading roles in "Pygmalion" are Henry Higgins, Eliza Doolittle, Col. Pickering, Mr. Doolittle, Mrs. Eynsford-Hill, and her daughter Clara.

According to Mr. Briggs, the play has not been produced in Lexington before. It is a three-set show, making it extremely difficult to present.

Earn Kays
Kays for work in Guignol may be earned by working a minimum of 25 hours in each production this year. Work is open in the box office, costuming, ushering, properties, stage, and lighting.

Anyone interested in joining the Guignol staff this season may contact Wallace Briggs, director, or Mrs. William Russell, business manager, in their offices in the theater any afternoon Monday through Friday between 1:00 and 5:00 p.m.

Rehearsals Begin Monday
Rehearsals will begin Monday night and continue for the five-week period before opening. The staff and extras have not been named by Mr. Briggs.

Tickets for "Pygmalion" will go on sale Nov. 10, and the play will begin on Wednesday, the following Monday. It will be held over if box office demands justify it. "John Loves Mary," the first Guignol production to be given in the new theater building, opened July 26 for one week and was held over.

"Pygmalion" is the 153th Guignol production in its twenty-one years. Other plays for this season have not been announced.

Med School Again

When the current controversy was dragged up over entrance of UK pre-medical graduates into the University of Louisville medical school, some students were asking why our University officials had little to say about the situation.

Why should they have any statements to make? Neither they nor UL officials are provoking any quarrel.

The whole discussion, arising from the discovery that five non-recommended UK graduates are enrolled in the med school, seems to be a rehash of this summer's brief furor.

Any new entrance requirements for the University of Louisville will have to come from the University of Louisville. It's their business.

It is to be hoped, however, that the system will be worked out to the best advantage of UK, UL, and Kentuckians who may need medical attention any time in the future.

Betting On Anybody?

Many students who are registered voters will lose their ballot this fall because they didn't take steps necessary for absentee voting.

Next Thursday the Campus League of Women Voters will see that absentee ballot applications are notarized free of charge, in the SUB. These applications may be had from your local county clerk.

When your ballot arrives, the League will have it notarized at a date to be announced later.

If citizens in the midst of a college education don't bother to use the voting privilege, who will?

Brrrrrr!

This sinister message, postmarked Boston, Mass., infiltrated into our morning mail the other day: "Communist students and faculty will report for Soviet retaliation any criticism, in classroom or publication, of Soviet science, labor control, or intellectual freedom."

Beware, fellow students, do not blurt out careless remarks in your classes, keep your insurance paid up, and wear your raincoat when it rains.

The underground will get you if you don't watch out.

Y Drive

Like Ol' Man River, the University YWCA keeps on rolling along.

Other campus organizations come and go, but the YW is always the biggest and usually the busiest woman's organization at UK.

Its members help at the Crippled Children's Hospital, the Veteran's Hospital, do Traveler's Aid work, sponsor campus services such as the "Hanging of the Greens," and still seem to have time to enjoy picnics, retreats, and so forth.

The annual YW membership drive starts Monday and lasts through Friday. New students and old can get a lot out of the Y.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Come the first of November the veterans about the campus will be rolling in wealth.

Hollering is the word. They'll be rolling out their cash to their creditors who have been keeping them in coffee and doughnuts while waiting for the GI subsistence checks to arrive.

Every fall the same gripe occurs. The men attending the University under the GI bill have to wait an average of a month and a half for their checks to arrive.

What are they supposed to do in the meantime? Exist on a future hope?

Most vets have already received notification of receipt of their VA forms filled out at registration. But they still have to wait another 30 days for a two month old check.

The old army game still haunts

the discharged soldier. "Hurry up and wait."

STUDENT

Editor, Kernel:

We, the inhabitants of Rose Street Barracks have what we believe to be a justified gripe.

Last year a few articles appeared on the relative merits of the girls' barracks on South Limestone Street and ours on Rose. But what came of it?

Nothing for us except the installation of Yale locks on the room doors. And they were put on only after repeated cases of thievery were reported.

But the women fared better. The coal burning stoves were removed and cleaner and more efficient oil heaters were substituted. The inside of the buildings were painted. Draperies were cleaned along with the rugs.

The list of improvements could be stretched, but why go into little

Those Freshman Caps

UK has few traditions, but a favorite of many students is the freshman cap tradition.

Freshman caps are an old institution hereabouts, and are reminiscent of the era when the freshman and sophomore men had an annual tug-of-war over Clifton Pond, resulting in a dunking for the losing class.

Those days are long gone, but the bright blue caps, revived after the war, are still a pleasant sight around the campus.

This is no plug for the Book Store, which obviously doesn't need it. It's just a word in praise of the many freshmen who have their caps, and a reminder to those who haven't gotten around to getting theirs.

Only last-year men are permitted to wear freshman caps. They wear them to show that they are students at the University of Kentucky, students who are proud to be members of the Class of '52.

details like new ashtrays and so me to manage their affairs it forth. This winter we will again be seemed like a good idea. (Their other one had run away with some coal smoke, shivering while the man just before that, but I knew that wouldn't happen to me.) We aren't professionals, but ever since then when I would try to advertise in your paper, I would meet with humiliation. I've tried everything.

Maybe we should be used to it. Please Miss Dice, Chi Delta Phi is just a bunch of amateur girls who like to write—like me. I guess if you don't give me some space next week there isn't anything a helpless girl can do—like me, but Oh yes, Pardon our impertinence. We did get two new mirrors over barracks. Hip, hip.

BARRACKS RESIDENT

Dear Miss Dice:

I have a problem. About nine months ago a great crisis occurred in my life and changed everything for me in my life. I've tried everything and I need you to tell me is there anything I can do. I don't need money.

I have always tried to be a good girl. A long time ago I promised my mother I wouldn't ever wear false eyelashes, speculate student ticket books, or smoke marijuana—but look at me.

Well, about two years ago somehow I got in with a different crowd and they made me think life would be lots better if I would just listen to them. You know what I mean. Nine months ago when they asked

UPSET

Editor of the Kernel:

While dashing off to class through the eight a.m. haze, a most startling thought occurred to me. Not only was the thought startling, but I was startled to have the thought at that unspeakable hour.

Could it be that the students and faculty on this campus think that the pathetic little "Please" printed so hopefully on a sign on the lawn of Norwood Hall over by the sidewalk going down by the law library is an abbreviation for "Please keep off the grass"???

"No," I told myself, "people just can't be that stupid."

And yet as I opened my sleepy eyes a little wider, there was the evidence: men, women going or coming to and from McVey, with a behind - the Engineering-building route, would walk at least 225 or 250 feet out of their way to walk over by the law library or the S.S. building.

They would stride down the sidewalk towards the museum, then turn at an abrupt angle and rush to their designation with justifiable disregard for everything and everybody in their path.

And all of this just to keep off the grass around Norwood Hall!

That poor ignored sign. It's not there to keep you off the grass; it's an abbreviation for "Please build a sidewalk"; it's a plaintive plea for a sidewalk to cut off those hundred or so extra steps which waste valuable time and energy for pedestrians; it's a plea for the improvement of the campus and the University. Please.....

Sincerely yours,
HORTENSE Q. HUGO

Dear Editor:

Congratulations to the boys and Coach Bryant for not knowing when they are licked. Mississippi, last Saturday night, was a fair sort of football team.

Now the grapes. Sour grapes to a dormant 7863 minus the squad. This is the total enrollment as given in the last Kernel. I have been a follower of the team for twenty odd years and for the first time I am ashamed to admit I have had anything to do with the University.

Dear Editor:

Congratulations to the boys and Coach Bryant for not knowing when they are licked. Mississippi, last Saturday night, was a fair sort of football team.

Now the grapes. Sour grapes to a dormant 7863 minus the squad. This is the total enrollment as given in the last Kernel. I have been a follower of the team for twenty odd years and for the first time I am ashamed to admit I have had anything to do with the University.

Cosmo Club To Hold First Meeting Tonight

The first meeting of the Cosmo Club will be held in the Y-Lounge of the SUB tonight at 7:30 to give all new foreign students at the University an opportunity to meet the members of the club.

Dr. E. A. Blage, adviser to all foreign students, and Mr. Bart Peak, YMCA secretary, will give short talks on the history and purpose of the club and will greet the new students.

Cabinet Makes Plans
The officers of the Club met last week to make plans for the year's activities. On the program list are two dances, tentatively scheduled for December and February, and a hayride, to be held this month.

Wildcats, Bulldogs

Jack Jackura, Gene Chandler, Gerry Deleski and Bill Bradshaw combine to give Georgia the best bunch of centers in the South. At the end positions, Co-Captain Weyman Sellers and Bob Walston will probably start. Walston received high praise for his performance in last week's game with Justice and Co. He was moved from halfback to the terminal position after the season and had developed into a fine player. Sophomore Bob, who made All-State after playing for McKinley High of Columbus, O., was used at end on the offense last Saturday and safety man on the defense. Around Athens, grid followers believe that he has All-American possibilities, with a little additional experience.

Gene Lorenzo is another Bulldog end who may cause UK some uneasy moments tomorrow. He snagged a 28-yard heave from Rauch with two minutes to go in the North Carolina game and raced for UG's second TD of the day.

Much Passing Expected
Four Pennsylvania-born quarterbacks are expected to fill the air with passes most of the game. For Kentucky, it will be George Blanda and Carl Genito hooking up in a duel with Georgia's Johnny Rauch and Ray Prosper.

For this season, Blanda has 12 completions in 25 attempts, while Genito has a six-in-13 record for the two games. Both passers spent most of this past week sharpening up on their aerial ability. Coach Bryant also stressed pass defense in practice sessions knowing well what to expect from Rauch and Co.

Running statistics for UK are as follows: Dopey Phelps has 23 tries, 93 yards gained for 4.04 average; Norm Klein has 108 yards gained in eight attempts for a sharp 13.5 figure, and Bill Heller has gained 16 yards in 13 runs for a 1.4 mark.

Other averages are: Shorty Jamerson 3.6 average in nine runs; Lee Truman 3.7 in four; James Howe 5.3 in three runs; Clayton Webb 4.5 in four; Bob Brooks 3.0 in one attempt; Carl Genito a minus .86 in eight; and George Blanda a minus two in four bucks.

Back Sunday Morning
The Wildcat crew is scheduled to work out this afternoon at Georgia's Sanford Stadium. They will leave Athens immediately after the game and, with a police escort, will dash to Atlanta in order to catch the train back to Lexington that night. The team will arrive back home Sunday morning, shortly after 7 o'clock.

Joe Geri, Georgia's act left half, led the Bulldog scorers last fall, yet scored only three touchdowns. 28 of his points came via the PAT route.

(One of these epics was composed, logically enough, by a member of the composing room staff. The other, a lyric, we think, was mailed to us by a sad student. While it is not the policy of the Kernel to steal any of "Vague's" thunder as a treasure-chest of literary gems, the Kernel is still published for the benefit of the students. If it makes anybody feel any better for us to run his poems, we'll do it, God and space willing.—Ed)

KERNEL SURE GETS TEDIOUS, DON'T IT?

Composing room howling, so forlorn; Gripenest bunch that ever was born. Howling because there is no copy. And the staff's too lazy to get it.

Ad men bringing in ads galore; This sure makes the news staff sore; But they'll find out in days ahead. That ads pay off the mortgage.

Editor and assistants hurry to no avail; They said they would have copy without fail; But linotype operators sit and pull their hair.

Life sure gets tedious, don't it.

Sports takes it easy the first of the week; Never thinking of a deadline to meet; So Saunders takes off and goes in swimming.

Leaving Diskin holding the bag.

Thursday comes round, forms ready for press; Everyone but pressmen are due for a rest; When in comes Rusty and ad men as well.

Saying "we've got a correction."

"Stock in the press room getting lower and lower.

And not a shipment for six months more; Miss Carrie at the P.O. will sure be sore.

If there is no Kernel for the boxes.

REUNION

"She'll come, ah, she'll come in the moonlight. When the night is like a silvery gauze.

No word need be spoken between us, 'T would tarnish that sacred pause.

Mayhap we'll meet rounding a corner.

While twilight brings death to the day.

Such meetings by rights should be casual.

Perhaps in the following way: "Well, well, (oh you devil incarnate) 'So it looks like we two meet again."

At all costs one has to be jolly. No matter the heart's cargo of pain.

We'll see this thing through to the end.

In one hour that the paltry won't grab.

From the first to the last 'twill be drama.

Give the lie to the saying, 'Life's drab!'

They met, and the sun was at mid-day.

Its glare was obscenely bright. With people he hadn't reckoned.

The crowd seemed to be there for spite.

She came from astern squealing "Hey, there!"

He wheeled and squeaked manfully "Hi."

She was poised, and very pretty. He tugged an imagined tie.

"How did the summer treat you?" she asked.

"So so," he managed to croak.

And since they were passing a drug-store

He gallantly said, "Want a coke?"

At the end of the hour she was restless.

"These classes won't wait, you know."

"Oh yes, heh heh, we can't miss them."

"So I guess we had better go."

This goes for basketball too. I'm getting tired of going to Louisville and possibly Owensboro to see games and find myself under the Pepsi-Cola sign or under the score board in the armory while the politicians and friends hog the seats on the playing floor.

Where do the students fit into this gripe?

The athletic teams are for your enjoyment and pride, but to date the pride has left with the first sign of losing.

Saturday night the student sections clamored up after the first Mississippi touchdown. Anybody can cheer when they are in front. The team doesn't need your support when they are winning. The student sections should be a sixty minute cheering section as well as the team.

How can this be accomplished? You know as many ways as I could name. My one suggestion is to put all the freshmen together, men and women.

Make them wear their caps. That's a part of their privilege of being freshmen. It used to be that way and it worked.

Cwens To Hold National Meet Here

A national convention of Cwens, leadership honorary for sophomore women, will be held on the University campus, October 29-31.

Delegates from all Cwens chapters and the Deans of Women at the colleges sponsoring chapters will register Friday afternoon for the meeting.

Several discussion groups, a banquet, a dinner, and other activities are planned for the visitors, according to Juanita Violette, president of the University's Theta chapter.

Woodrow Wilson instituted the first formal and regular White House press conference.

this situation. It is their responsibility but they need the help of all those attending the games.

The fraternities and sororities at one time cooperated in the best of fashion in this endeavor but in this time of atom age, I wonder. They seem to be RAH-RAH boys and girls only in the taverns and bars. This I am not against. Let's carry some of it to the games. I don't mean the hooch either.

The second gripe, our band. Is there some way to relieve that wand-waver of his job without hurting his feelings? Petrillo doesn't require him there, I hope. Our drum majors are quite capable and I am sure one of them could lead the fanfare and the alma mater songs.

Our band is known throughout the South as the Marching Band of the University of Kentucky, the Best Band in Dixie. Why not let them march and be snappy, not worry about Ole Man River and Lil' Eva crossing the ice floes.

It is pretty and such but I think that a good marching band with good tunes or marches would be much more appreciated by all.

They would look pretty bad at the present time beside such bands as Bama, Tennessee, Tulane and most of the rest. See if something can't be done about this.

I know I don't have the solution to the problem but I have done a little thinking on the subject which seems to be more than most people have done, or maybe I am the only one to make myself heard???

Miss Editor, see what you can do for the old folks.

Sincerely,
AN OLD GRAD

Editor:

The editors of the Kentucky Kernel hold a grudge against President Truman and the Democratic Party? It would seem so, after last week's issue.

The Kernel carried front page stories on the Dixiecrat rally and Harold E. Stassen's speech; but no mention was made of President Truman's visit to Lexington.

Granted that the president did not actually visit the campus and that there was a time element involved, there is still no excuse for so great an omission. Disregarding the show of lack of respect for our executive head, there remains the fact that the Kernel failed to inform its readers of an important news happening.

An explanation is due the student body.

R. G.

The Kernel intended no disrespect to President Truman or the Democratic Party. The Dixiecrat rally was held on campus, and Stassen was to have been introduced by UK students. The president's visit did not seem to us at the time to be a subject for a campus newspaper, any more than any other city or national news not directly pertaining to the University. But if we were wrong we apologize. Maybe in chasing down less important happenings we just couldn't see the forest for the trees. The criticism is well-deserved.

Editor, the Kernel:

May I suggest that you, if interested in such matters, unmask the fraud perpetrated by the Athletic Association on those supporters of the University who joined the STACs.

The facts are simple. People were told that they would be guaranteed the right to purchase two tickets in the concrete sections of the stadium if they would join the STACs—membership fee $15.00. In other words, for the privilege of purchasing two season tickets you paid a premium of $15.00. This all took place before the public knew of any contemplated enlargement of the stadium and those who joined naturally thought they were paying extra to secure seats in the old concrete stadium.

When the tickets of STAC members arrived, they were good in the new sections and carried the notation that they were good only if that section was completed by the time of the game. This caused such an uproar that a form letter was sent out in which it was stated that tickets might be exchanged for seats in the middle section of the stadium—if such seats are completed before game time.

The really ironic part of this situation is that people, who have neither paid the STAC premium nor supported the University, have received better tickets by merely writing off and ordering same.

It is also noted with interest that the old black market in tickets still operates and tickets for the 50 yard line have been offered on every side by hawkers at the past two games.

It would seem unfortunate that the legal black market condoned by the University has been unable to secure seats comparable to those offered by others—but the question arises as to which of the two black markets the University really condones???

Yours very truly,
THOMAS C. CARROLL

Dear Madam:

The temperature has been down to 50 degrees for a week now and students are freezing to death.

The rat-a-tat-tat of their teeth in class makes it impossible to hear the golden words of the professor. I can't college to learn, not listen to a bunch of imitation "Rosie-the-Riveters."

The University may be conserving fuel by giving us the cold shoulder.

but on the other hand, the University will lose its name for cordial hospitality.

Visitors will be forced to say, "That is the coldest campus I ever saw!"

If the reason for freezing us is to cut down on operational costs, why doesn't the University be consistent? Monday it was 46 degrees and the rain was pouring down. Did we have heat? No, but we had a large sprinkler watering the grass outside the Administration Building.

Guess that shows where the University's heart is—students, let us unite!

Our battle cry will be "Preserve the students as well as the grass!"

Editor:

Entirely too much drinking of alcoholic liquor is being done by students at University of Kentucky football games. Spectators seem more interested in making spectacles of themselves than in watching a football game. The main attraction is no longer a sporting event, it is a public drinking bout.

These persons could not have come to the stadium with the intention of seeing the game. By the end of the first quarter their eyes are out of focus; at the half most of them are sick or quarrelsome, and before the game is over some of them are unconscious or have been assisted out of the stadium.

Those who do come to the stadium to see a football game are not only annoyed by these drunks, but they are ashamed of them. If these dissipated young people are supposed to be the social and intellectual "cream of Kentucky", then something has gone sour. Are they trying to live up to college drinking tradition without realizing that smart social drinking is restrained drinking?

Students who are tempted to over-indulge might consider their university's athletics. It takes a great deal of restraint to keep training regulations and practice sportsmanship on the playing field. If the fans think nothing of their own physical conditioning, they might practice some restraint in support of their team.

Society accepts the college graduate as a gentleman. However, a gentleman is not only educated, he is also able to hold his liquor. If you can't hold yours, don't drink it!

Georgia Gridders Out For Revenge

Date: Saturday, October 9.
Time: 12:30 p.m.

Scene: University of Georgia's locker room. Wally Butts, Georgia's head football coach is speaking to his players who are gathered around him in a big circle.

BUTTS: All right, boys, sit down and take it easy for a few minutes. At 2 o'clock we go to work. You'll know who we are playing this afternoon. You also remember last season when we went up to Lexington, following our win over LSU, that Kentucky team just simply beat the 'U' out of us and we took a 36-0 drubbing. That's not going to happen again today. We were too cocky last season. This time we know better. Now let's go over that lineup of Kentucky once now.

RAUCH (the quarterback): According to the papers, that Uliniski won't be playing today.

BUTTS: Don't be too surprised if he gets in. You know how Bryant is with the cryin' towel. Course their reserves, Ford and Wodke, are smaller than Uliniski and they shouldn't bother us too much out there.

HARTMAN (backfield coach): Phelps won't be as tough to stop today as he was last year. Against Ole Miss he showed just average speed, although he did average over four yards per run.

BUTTS: Yeah, and our scouts said that Boller, the left half, only made six yards in five tries in the Rebel game last week. Boller can be dangerous at times, but he hasn't shown much at all this season.

HARTMAN: This here Lee Truman, the number one fullback, is really comin' around. He is great on the defense. . . doesn't run the ball much, fortunately for us. Howe is another runner to watch out for, but he doesn't get to carry the ball too much either. Howe is plenty sharp on the pass defense. Norm Klein is rather weak at defense, but he can sure lug the leather on the offense. I rate him faster than Phelps. . . judging by the first two games this season.

BUTTS: And listen, boys, don't let this little fella Jammers get away. He has plenty of guts and drive and hates to be stopped. I think he is only 5-8 but a toughie, and a shifty runner to boot.

RAUCH: How about their quarterbacks? Blanda is back again this year, but I don't know about this guy. Genito, who played pretty much against Miss.

BUTTS: From my reports Blanda played a stinky game last Saturday. He fumbled, passed poorly and even his punting was off. But, lawd, he might be as hot as a pistol today. . . ya never can tell about this game. Blanda won't be under half the pressure today as last week playing before a home crowd. He might just reach back and throw all day. But we have had enough drills on pass defense to stop them. Genito is rather inexperienced and although he can leave a wicked pass at times, this kid is liable to call some bad plays and we can then capitalize on them. We'll just have to play for the breaks if those Cats start to get rough.

BERNIE REID (co-captain and guard): What about that line? We should be able to handle 'em if those Rebs could, huh?

BUTTS: What do y'think, "Whit," you've scouted Kentucky twice?

J. B. WHITWORTH (scout and line coach): Well, as I said last Monday, the Wildcat miss Rhoads, myre, Serini and Lahr plenty!! They stopped the Xavier running attack swell, but Ole Miss was just too damn tough for the 'Cats, that's all. I hope it's the same way this afternoon out there. . . just git in there and rush, rush and rush. The Rebs several times rushed Blanda and Genito and as a result their passing was pretty poor. That is what we have to do today.

BUTTS: How about the ends?

WHITWORTH: Naturally ole Wah Jones will be a tough baby to keep down. He has looked very good in both games this season and is the captain of UK for today, which should make him extra rough out there. Zaranka, like Jones, is 6'4" and can really snag passes well. After that, the 'Cats haven't much at all.

WEYMAN SELLERS (the other co-captain): Those tackles on Kentucky aren't too deep either, are they Whit?

WHITWORTH: No they aren't. Bob Gain is mighty rough and will probably give you linemen a busy afternoon. Doc Ferrell and this big McDermott blow hot and cold. Another, Frank Smotherman, has been injured and might not play, but he is darn good when he's right.

BUTTS: From what I hear, those guards aren't too much. That is where we are going to run most of our line plays. . . right over guard

"Hemo" is the unusual nickname of Hugh McCarthy, Georgia center. It stems from his constantly drinking that beverage to gain weight and stay in shape.

Arthur Antonelli, Georgia reserve center, answers to the name "Angel." Teammates claim he bears a striking resemblance to the French wrestler of that name.

positions. Ole Miss concentrated on the right guard and right tackle spot, Saturday and they did right well for themselves. Holway is pretty scrappy and is coming around O.K. recently and another guy, Wannamaker, might be tough if he wants to be. The rest of the guards are strictly average. . . if that.

WHITWORTH: At center, if Uliniski is sidelined, will probably be Roy Ford, a fair player, or Bob Wodtke, who looks good at times and not so good other times. That's another weak position for Kentucky. I think we can outguess them, unless they ever pick up a lot more drive this week.

RAUCH: I think our passing will keep them with their backs to the wall. . . we will try to pass them dizzy. I didn't do so good up in Lexington last October, but maybe this time it will be a different story.

BUTTS: Well, boys, it's entirely up to you now. I've done all I could for us to take this game. Don't forget this is our first conference game and we've got to win it. Tech hasn't won the championship by a long shot. What time is it, Doc? O.K. Open that door and let's all go out there and get to work.

UK's Cage Yearlings Hold Much Promise

By Tom Spillman

Over 60 men turned up in Alumni Gym Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock to try for the frosh cage squad.

Eighteen of the men had been working out for the past week on invitation from Freshman Coach Harry Lancaster and Varsity Coach Rupp. In addition to these men, eight were chosen from the remaining group and asked to come back Thursday.

Coach Lancaster handled the group rapidly, but not without consideration of every man present. From 3 until 3:15 p.m. the hopefuls loosened up with long shots.

At 3:15, the work started when Humsey Yessin, Varsity manager, picked five new men to play a team of the agers who had been working out for the past week. One team after another poured into the game until all had shown their ability on the hardwood.

When all had been tried, Coach Lancaster dismissed all but the men he had been working out before. Teams were formed once again and a hard, fast scrimmage took place.

Hoopers Have Height

It was too early to tell really what any man could do, but they all had a thorough knowledge of the sport. They also showed another definite asset, and that was height. Six-footers were common, and one fellow measured an even seven feet.

The usual lack of wind and excess weight of early season slowed them down, and it was emphasized that strict training must be followed. After practice the 18 players took five laps around the gym to build up their wind.

The schedule is not yet complete, but the first game is Monday, November 22, at Kentucky Wesleyan in Winchester.

Practice will be from 3 to 5 o'clock each afternoon, Monday through Friday, until the Varsity begins work on November 1. After this date, the two squads will practice together.

All practice sessions are closed, and no one will be admitted under any circumstances. Coach Lancaster asks every person to cooperate in being out of the gym by 3 each afternoon.

The roster of first-year men who have been working out for the past two weeks, under Coach Lancaster, is as follows:

Bill Spivey, of Warner-Robins, Ga., 7 feet tall.
Ted Price, Cincinnati Walnut Hills, 6' 7".
Walter Whitaker, Long Island, N. Y., 6' 6".
Bill Neu, Long Island, N. Y., 6' 6".
Dick Swan, Gary, Indiana, 6' 3 1/2".
George Lambros, Huntington, W. Va., 6' 3".
Charles Newton, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., 6' 2 1/2".
Dick Scott, Jeffersonville, Ind., 6' 2".
Bert Cox, London, Ky., 6' 2".
Buddy Hill, Cincinnati, Ky., 6' 2".
Arlan King, Madison, Indiana, 6' 2".
Gay Strong, Irvine, Ky., 6' 1".
Len Pearson, Chicago, Ill., 6' 1".
Junior Whitaker, Sarasota, Fla., 6 feet even.

'Waddlin' Wally Butts Boasts Superb Record At 'Jawjah'

Georgia's head football coach, Wally Butts, is one of the most colorful mentors in the Southeastern conference. Around Athens and Atlanta, Butts is known facetiously as "Foot-ball's Mr. Five-by-Five," a testimonial to his 190 pounds packed on only 5'4" of frame.

In his younger days, the midget from Milledgeville, Ga., was an all-conference for Mercer University in Macon although only weighing at the time 165 pounds. He also played basketball and baseball in college and supplemented these activities with a little boxing and wrestling on the side.

After leaving school, Wally spent four years coaching at Madison A & M in Georgia and turned out a Southern and State championship team before moving to Georgia Military College.

The little man's next stop was Louisville Male High where he coached for three years (1935, 1936 and 1937) before joining the Bulldog staff. During this three-year period, his teams whipped Manual High twice to endear himself in the hearts of all the Purple fans of Louisville.

In 1938 he served as assistant coach at the University of Georgia. After only one year there, Butts was named to succeed Joel Hunt as pilot of the Red and Black at the age of only 34.

The stocky Georgian's all-time record at Georgia, including the North Carolina game last week, is 73 wins, 26 losses and three ties. The school's entire football mark from 1892 to 1948 is 271 victories, 149 losses and 32 ties.

Discipline and Condition
Forty-three year old Wally Butts believes in two things above all—discipline and condition. Throughout the years, the Bulldogs have been an extremely strong team in the final quarter. They like to wear down the opponent in the initial three periods and then run wild in the final 15-minute session.

In 1942, for example, Georgia was trailing Alabama 10-0 at the end of the third quarter with a Rose Bowl bid at stake. In the last period, Fireball Frankie Sinkwich hit End George Poschner with two TD passes and Andy Dudish scored another to give the Dogs a brilliant 21-10 victory. The year before, Georgia clipped Auburn in the very last play of the game when Sinkwich tossed a long touchdown pass to Lamar Davis.

This season, the Bulldogs scored the winning marker against Chattanooga in the last period on the passing of QB John Rauch. Last week, Rauch again tossed a scoring aerial (to End Gene Lorendo) in the dying minutes of the contest, but Charley Justice scored three TD's and the Tarheels won 21-14.

Passing Attack Outstanding
Butts sums up his coaching system this way. He rates in the order of importance (1) discipline, (2) condition, (3) fundamentals and (4) pass attack.

The average coach does well to get three men down the field for a pass, but Butts projects four possible receivers into the open and runs the opposing secondary crazy. More than once, the Georgia Bulldogs have placed first in the nation for the number of aerials thrown in a season.

Other factors in Georgia's success is the perfect condition of the players. The gridders limit themselves to three seconds to get on and off the field during a game. The men of Butts always remain standing during a timeout. You don't see a Georgian man on the ground unless he is injured. Still another cog in Butts' system is the prohibition of drinking water during the game. UG has no water bucket. Coach Butts says "Water makes an athlete lazy and he can't do his best with his belly sloshin' with water in it."

During one timeout in the Rose Bowl game of 1942 with UCLA, the California team's trainer sent out a perambulating water cart with a separate spigot for each player on the UCLA team. When Butts saw this he roared to his assistants "we'll beat 'em for sho now". Final WALLY BUTTS, coach of the Georgia Bulldogs. Since the little guy has been at Athens, the Georgia eleven has won four bowl games, tied in another, and has taken the conference crown twice. In addition, the 1946 Bulldog team was the first undefeated and untied grid aggregation at U. of G. since 1896.

score of that game was Georgia 9, UCLA 0.

Fact is, Butts has never been beaten in a bowl game. In 1941, UG whipped TCU, 40-26 in the Orange Bowl. The following year, Sinkwich, Trippi and Co. went to the Rose Bowl and licked UCLA, 9-0. Then in 1945, at the Oil Bowl, the Georgians won from Tulsa, 20-6.

Another landmark was reached by Butts' boys in 1946 when they clipped North Carolina, 20-10, as Rauch outshone the great Charley Justice in the Sugar Bowl classic. Then last season, they tied a strong Maryland crew, 20-20, in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.

Last October 11th, the Wildcats smacked the burly Bulldogs, 26-0, on Stoll Field and made the usually jovial Butts a very sad man when he left Lexington. This Saturday, Coach Wally will have his huskies all keyed up to avenge that defeat. Let's hope that our Wildcats will be ready for the Athens gang and upset the favored Bulldogs again this time.

Intramurals

By Tom Spillman and Claude Sprowls

Bowling has been added to the list of tournaments offered by the Intramural Department. Bill McCubbin, IM director, announced.

Teams will be composed of five regulars and two alternates, and will use the University bowling alleys on Euclid Avenue each Monday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Any group, either fraternity or independent, may enter after paying a $3 fee.

A trophy will be awarded at the end of the semester to the team having the highest score. Although the tournament is under the supervision of the Intramural Department, the sport will not contribute toward the participation trophy to be given to the group having teams in the largest number of sports.

Any teams interested should contact Bill McCubbin at the IM office in Alumni Gym. October 15 is the entry deadline. Bowling will start on October 18.

Claude Sprowls is the senior intramural manager and is supervising the IM football program.

RESULTS OF THE IM GRID GAMES

Kinkead Hall - 13, ATO - 0
Kinkead Hall's gridiron squad topped the ATO aggregation by a 13-0 score in the opening game of the season.

Triple-threat Fred Lawson of the Dorm men crossed the scoring line once each half to lead the attack. Coach Bill Nee's ATO team of blue and gold set up an effective pass defense, which held the Dorm team to ground work.

After the fine blocking by Halback Irvin Altman, the Kinkead team soon found weakness around the ATO flanks. Wide sweeps showed consistent gains, and supplied the margin of victory.

Halback Jack Stewart, who doubled at defensive right end for ATO, intercepted three passes and was the team's spark. Quarterback Fred Perkins and Center Frank Boswell also did well with their blocking assignments for the blue and gold.

PKA - 13, SN - 0
The White Star of Sigma Nu fell to defeat at the hands of a PKA offensive, sparked by the effective passing of Quarterback Jim Barlow.

The PKA attack got underway like a steam roller. Passes from Barlow to Ends Jack Schiffl and Dick Ammons connected with clock-like regularity.

Lack of height in the SN backfield was a problem with the six-foot plus ends of PKA always in the flats, and if not enough, Right Guard Ferguson, a scrappy player, was the fifth man in the SN backfield most of the game.

The SN line looked promising, but seemed to be nursing an off day. Bob Russell, Chick Watts, and Al Gailgally made up the bulkwork of the line for the White Star men.

PSK - 6, Lewistites - 0
A 20 yard run back of a pass interception by PSK Halback Don DeBeer in the final minutes of play gave the Red men from PSK a victory over the Lewistites.

PSK was heavily favored, but both teams were disappointing in that their attacks were poorly coordinated.

PKT - 20, DX - 0
The Williams - to - Sears passing attack of PKT proved too much for weaker DX.

Two pass interceptions and touchdown runs made the score heavy in favor of the Phi Taus.

Triangles - 6, AGR - 0
A mild upset was registered by the Triangle nine when they beat a favored AGR club 6-0.

The game proved to be routine with the teamwork of both groups not completely polished.

LXA - 1, KA - 0
An overtime period was needed for a favored LXA team to put down a fighting KA squad.

An average of 200 pounds in the line of LXA caused no worry for the KA's as they showed up better as a whole in all departments.

However, in the second half, John Cahay, the left guard of LXA, put a much needed spark in the line. To offset this threat, Frank Benton at right end, and Ray Enicks at left half for KA showed they could also play ball. Benton made several good catches with men all around him, and Enicks could run or pass the ball.

BERNIE REID, a senior guard from Hamilton, Ohio. He stands six feet in height, weighs 195 and is 23 years of age. Excels at downfield blocking and is also a deadly tackler. Serves as co-captain of the squad with End Weyman Sellers.

When time had run out, the score was 0-0.

In a case like this, the ball is placed on the 20-yard line and one team moves it as far as possible in four downs. Then the opposition takes over and goes for four downs. The team with the most yardage is awarded one point.

Carlton Brown of LX passed to Tackett for 13 yards and the KA's couldn't make up the deficit.

Mississippi Subdues UK 'Mildcats', 20-7

By Kent Hollingsworth

Last year's SEC champions looked like repeat performers here last Saturday night, when the University of Mississippi downed Kentucky, 20-7 on Stoll Field.

The Ole Miss Rebels, led by Bobby Wilson, Jerry Tibbler, and Barby Poole, ran better, rushed better, blocked better and looked better than the Wildcats for most of the 60 minutes.

The first quarter the squads looked pretty evenly matched, each team bucking the line for five or six yards and then kicking; each crew waiting for the break to come.

The break came and went, against Kentucky, when Bobby Wilson's 73 yard quick kick rolled dead on the Kentucky 12. The first play following, Blanda fumbled and the whole Rebel army fell on it. Barby Poole then took a handoff and was stopped by Zaranka for no gain; Dixie Howell scooted over right guard to the six, and Salmon passed to Poole the Don Hudson of college football, for the first score.

The second tally came with the second half only three minutes old. Blanda booted one 41 yards to Billy Mustin; he lateraled to Jerry Tibbler who, with the aid of perfect downfield blocking, danced 69 yards for a TD. A flying elbow smashed Benny Zaranka's nose on the play. Zaranka was one of several Kentucky line-men that received unusually-hard blocking throughout the game.

A third Ole Miss score was set up when Ole Poole gathered in a pass on the 30 yard stripe and trudged off to the six with Wildcats dangling all over him. Jenkins slipped over right guard for the points.

Truman, Ferrell and Genito Play Well

Lee Truman, Doc Ferrell and Carl Genito were the outstanding Kentuckyans. Truman, perhaps the Cats' best defensive back, made eight tackles and handled the ball three times; on the first play of the game, the Owensboro junior returned the kickoff nine yards; in the fourth quarter, he went eight yards through the line, was stopped by a host of Rebels, lateraled to Howe, who went another nine yards; and on the last Cat offensive play of the game, he charged the line for a half yard and Kentucky's only touchdown.

Right Tackle Doc Ferrell plugged the hole-time and time again on his side of the line. It became alarmingly apparent, as the game dragged on, that if the Doctor didn't get them,

Ole Miss would pick up six yards or so.

Carl Genito proved he could operate under pressure when left in for more than three consecutive plays. When Blanda had more than his share of bad breaks, Genito filled in pretty well; he kept looking for his receivers to the last second and seldom threw hurriedly because six mammoth linemen were snarling in his face.

Clayton Webb scratched the spark that started the Cat score. He participated in only six plays, out booted a 30-yard punt, hit Howe with a 15 yard pass, and plowed through the line for 28 yards before a regiment of Rebels squashed him. He came out of the game with a bum shoulder.

Dependable Wah Jones pulled some passes out of the air. Bob Gaud proved about three times, he can knock the shoulder-pads off of anyone when he wants to.

Hospital attendants reported that tests indicated the case was not serious.

Denny is a member of the Henry Clay High School football team.

DisKentucky

Sports Review

— By Tom Diskin, Sports Editor —

Mississippi's 20 points against the Wildcats last Saturday was the most scored on Kentucky since October 26, 1916, when Alabama trimmed the Blue and White, 21-7, in Montgomery. . . . the Rebels scored the highest number of points over a UK eleven on Stoll Field since Georgia came up here on October, 1915, to lick the Lynxes of Lexington, 18-6.

Louisiana State University may have the heaviest and the lightest football players in collegiate ranks this fall. Lineman Russell Bankston tips the scales at 296, while Quarterback Ray Porta weighs in at 140 pounds. . . . Georgia Tech's Jim Nolan is the SEC's tallest grid player, measuring six-foot, eight inches. . . . he's a senior and plays end for the Engineers. The shortest footballer in the conference is at Tennessee. He is Ray Elkas, an 190 pound, 5'6" guard from Pawtucket, R.I. Elkas is a 19-year-old sophomore.

Georgia has 12 seniors on the 1948 grid roster, 16 juniors, and 32 sophomores. . . . Kentucky has four seniors, 15 juniors and 29 sophomores.

"The Understatement of the Year!" Coach Vaughn of Ole Miss: "our idea against Kentucky is to stay in the ball game." Here is more he said before the UK-Rebel game—"my team is far from being ready for a game with Kentucky. Actually we hope to hold Kentucky to three touchdowns, or say that close. . . . getting any closer would be a moral victory for Ole Miss." Wonder what he said following their 20-7 triumph? He must have been deliriously happy if he meant the above mentioned utterances.

One building that Kentucky must watch tomorrow afternoon is Floyd (Goo Goo) Reid, an 180-pound junior halfback from Hamilton, Ohio. . . . he also has the nickname of "Breezy". . . . then there is another Reid boy, brother to "Goo Goo". He is called "Burn-Em-Up" Bernie, is an 195-pound senior guard, and co-captain of the Georgia team along with End Weyman Sellers.

The only touchdown that Dopey Phelps has scored against a Southeastern Conference team in three seasons is in the opening minutes of the UK-Georgia skirmish on Stoll Field last fall. . . . Dopey took Right Half Joe Geri's punt on his own 40 and raced 60 yards down the sidelines for the TD. . . . it was the fifth play of the contest.

Incidentally, Geri is an outstanding punter and last season led the Bulldogs in scoring, largely through his ability to kick those points-after-touchdown. . . . Geri booted 26 out of 31 attempts, and scored three markers for a total of 44 points. . . . "Goo Goo" Reid was second with 36 tallies. . . . Rauch last fall attempted 201 passes, completed 110, for a net gain of 1,542 yards and 10 touchdowns. Not a bad season. Weyman Sellers, starting end for the "Dogs, caught 23 of Rauch's flips, good for 315 yards.

Coach Paul Bryant blamed the Wildcats' loss to Ole Miss on the fact that his team "was too timid, too tame." The blocking and tackling were not hard enough." The Bear also stated that he thought Lee Truman did an "outstanding job" against the Rebels and that Sophomore Clayton Webb ran well.

The University of Georgia holds the all-time record in the number of first downs earned in one season, 185 were run up in 1942. This was the team that had Charley Trippi, Frankie Sinkwich, Lamar Davis and many other stars. . . . That eleven lost only to Auburn in a major upset, 27-14, and clinaxed the season with a victory over UCLA in the Rose Bowl. . . . Kentucky scored the Bulldogs eerily in that campaign opener. . . . Georgia coming from behind to nose out the Cats, 7-6, in Louisville.

Fourteen states are represented on Georgia's varsity roster, Minnesota and Nebraska being the most distant. . . . Mississippi State does not have a single Yankee on their football roster. . . . Ole Miss has only one, Alf Brazen, a substitute end from Chicago. . . . Georgia Tech, favored to win the loop laurels, has four native Kentuckians on their squad. . . . Left End Hank Schenning (Louisville), Left Guard Stewart Graham (Louisville), Right Halfback Ramsey Taylor (Princeton), and Right Tackle Dale Lupton (Louisville).

Tulane has 16 Texans on their 1948 football aggregation. . . . Alabama has a 6'7", 270-pound tackle on its squad. His name is Fred Haushalter. . . . he's 20 years of age and a sophomore from Pensacola, Florida. . . . The Crimson Tide has 31 sophomores now playing on its grid team. . . .

LSU is the largest university in the SEC with an enrollment of over 13,000. . . . Tennessee has around 11,000. . . . Alabama and Florida close to 9,000. . . . Auburn with 8,777. . . . Kentucky and Tulane have about the same enrollment, approximately 7,700. . . . Tech unknown. . . . Georgia 6,044. . . . with Ole Miss, Vanderbilt and Mississippi State all having around 3,600 students.

Wildcat gridgers are apt to take the scouting reports of Ernie Allen and Ted Osborn a little more seriously in the future. . . . these two gents reported that the Ole Miss line was the best they ever saw in collegiate competition and after the game Saturday, some 26,000 spectators and a few dozen white-clad football players were inclined to agree with Messrs. Allen and Osborn.

Plenty of praise was bestowed on the University's snappy 88-piece band after their performance at halftime. It was the best demonstration on Stoll Field, we believe, in recent years. The bandmen marched and played well; the show boat idea was novel and cleverly developed; and Dave Mahanes' rendition of "Ole Man River" was excellent considering the handicaps he was under.

Track Coach Desires Freshman Candidates

By Joe Hibbs

There is an urgent need for first-year track men. All interested should report immediately and start working out. Practice is not official but daily workouts are being conducted by last year's captain George Kirchner, and the new captain Tony Dallas. Some of the past lettermen are also working out in an effort to better the mark set by the team last season. Official practice will not start until spring, but there is a need for year-around conditioning for a good track man, says Dr. Scaton, UK track coach.

Those men doing the 440, the 880, the mile run and the cross country event work out on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays under the direction of Kirchner. They work out on golf courses, the training track, the football field and other places suitable for cross country runs. The jumpers, vaulters and remainder of the squad practice on Tuesdays and Thursdays and are coached by Dallas.

A complete freshman schedule will be arranged for the coming one. Fresh, this season, cannot earn varsity letters, but they will be awarded freshman letters and a chance for the varsity the following season.

The chances for a highly successful season for the varsity are prospective, says Dr. Scaton. The 1943 team was undefeated in dual meets. However, when entered in the major meets, the inexperienced endermen scored few points. Early in the season the Kentucky team entered the Purdue Relays and later the Penn Relays. From both meets they returned scoreless. But Coach Scaton, who has just finished his first season with the Cats, is building for the future and this experience will help the thinies in future years, and some of it should be paying off the next season.

Veterans Back
The well-manned varsity will include such veterans as Captain Tony Dallas, who led all pointmakers last season, George Kirchner, the top distance runner, Dopey Phelps, Dale Barnstable, Frank Smithman,

Player Of The Week: Lee Truman

By Dudley Saunders

Accolades this week go to a Kentucky Wildcat who never played football until his junior year in high school and who is now a member of Kentucky's starting eleven. He is the Kernel's choice for "Player of the Week" honors.

That is Lee Truman, junior fullback from Owensboro.

Not only was he the only man to score against Ole Miss, but he was one of the leading defensive stars in the Wildcats' losing battle against the defending SEC champs.

Until his junior year Lee was a member of the high school band and marched up and down the gridiron playing a trumpet at halftime. At the suggestion of several friends he tried out for the team and made it.

Before long he was a member of the starting eleven. In his senior year he won All-State honors and was named as Kentucky's representative on the mythical All-Southern team, after scoring 20 touchdowns to lead his team to an undefeated season.

The following fall found him on a train headed for Lexington with a scholarship in his pocket. That was about the same time that Paul Bryant was headed Bluegrass-way to take over the job of head grid coach.

Truman, a Commerce major, was soon converted into a defensive back, a role in which he was notably inept in high school. Last year he was a regular on defense, but still managed to carry the ball 27 times for 121 yards for a rushing average of 4.4 per try.

Against Ole Miss, Lee only handled the ball three times. He returned the opening kick-off 11 yards, made 11 more on an end around, before lurching to Howe for nine more, then bucked over from the one for the Kentucky touchdown.

Honorable mention this week goes to Tackles Bob Gain and Doc Ferrell and reserve Quarterback Carl Genito. Gain and Ferrell were the mainstays of the forward wall, and Genito started the second half Wildcat rally that resulted in a touchdown.

Ray Connally, Georgia end, reconverted from guard, earned the Air Medal with cluster as a B-29 gunner in the Pacific.

Georgia's net passing yardage in 1947 was more than twice that of all of her opponents' 1,621 to 807.

Four of Georgia's varsity men lettered in 1944. They are not five-year men, however, but returned GI's.

Six of Georgia's points against Chattanooga were scored on a pass to Bob Walston, the other TD was set up by a pass to the same man.

John Duke, reserve end at Georgia, was an All-Southern basketball in high school.

"Your girl isn't spoiled, is she?" "No, that's just the perfume she is wearing."

JOHNNY RAUCH, Georgia's ace quarterback from Yeadon, Penn., which is a suburb of Philadelphia. Until his junior year in high school, Rauch was barred from playing football because of a heart defect. Eventually he overcame that handicap and was a basketball and football star for Yeadon High in his final two years there. As a sophomore, Johnny threw 87 passes, completed 48, while Trippi hit for 40 out of 70 attempts. Last season, he connected for 110 in 210 shots. He is excellent on defense, especially at tackling.

Holland Leaves UK

Joe Holland, All-Southeastern basketball forward in '47, is now in the automobile business with his father-in-law in Madison, West Virginia.

Big Joe, who attended the University of Iowa while in the Naval Air Corps, found he had enough credits last March, dropped out the spring quarter, and returned in June for his diploma.

Holland had one more year of eligibility left, but decided to go into business following his graduation.

The Benton, Ky. lad and Captain Kenny Rollins were the only players to start every game during the 46-47 campaign. Holland is just a hair under 6'5" and was Kentucky's strongest man under enemy baskets.

Joe's younger brother, Charlie Holland, is still attending the University. An athlete in his own right, he won the intramural tennis singles last spring and teamed with Bob Shearer to win the doubles crown.

Georgia's John Rauch Top Passer In South

Last year Johnny Rauch completed 110 passes for 1,542 yards to rank fifth nationally in total defense.

This year Coach Butts, who usually spares all praise of his men, predicts his star quarterback will be an All America selection.

Rauch turned up at Georgia four years ago as a captain and fullback of a high school team that didn't win a game in 1944. In his freshman year, Wally Butts worked him hard and developed one of the top T quarterbacks in the South.

As a sophomore, he teamed with Charley Trippi and guided Georgia to an unbeaten, untied season which wound up with a Sugar Bowl victory. He hit 48 receivers in 87 tries and finished with 816 yards total offense.

Rauch has been the All-Conference quarterback for the last two seasons and is almost a certainty for the honor again this year.

He's 21, 6', 185 pounds, a good punter, although somewhat overshadowed by his teammate, Joe Geri.

Registration Figures Show Vet Enrollment Peak Passed

The peak in veteran enrollment has passed, according to figures released by the Personnel office this week.

The office reports the registration of 4,342 veterans during the current semester. One year ago the veteran enrollment was 4,795.

55 Per Cent
The ex-GI's comprise 55 per cent of the total enrollment of 7,863. Last year the veterans made up 62 per cent of the student population.

A breakdown shows 4,149 veterans enrolled in Lexington, with 171 at the College of Pharmacy in Louisville, and 22 at the Northern Extension Center in Covington.

Only 38 women are numbered among the veterans on the campus, but the number of married veterans is going up, despite the shortage of housing.

Married Vets
This semester 1,556 married vets are listed, or 37 per cent, an increase of 16 over last year.

The children on the campus number 756, with 38 per cent of the couples having offspring.

Most veterans, the statistics report, are in the junior and senior classes, which means an even lower enrollment in the future.

Drop Anticipated
Dr. Lyle W. Croft, director of personnel, said the 11 per cent drop had been anticipated and was in keeping with the national trend.

A significant point, he added, is the over-all increase in enrollment despite the loss of veterans. Non-veterans not only have countered the drop of more than 450 veterans, but also accounted for a jump of over 600 in the number of non-veteran students.

Lay Aside Li'l' Abner, Kiddies -- No Shmoos Is Good Shmoos

Green Pearl McFish, animal husbandry junior, started her drive yesterday to combat the danger of nuclear energy on campus. "It is Good Citizenship Week for me," said Miss McFish.

The heap of rubble pictured above is all that remains of staid old Neville Hall, against which freshman Gladys Overschmaltz leaned late last night.

The new University pigeon loft is rapidly nearing completion. The Spice Of Life

By Ruby Graham and Jobie Anderson

After swimming in tears (or was it salty?) and cheering for Stassen and Truman, we'll all have to admit that another super week has flown by.

"Lefty" Billiter is trying to talk Dean Burgess out of the thirty-dollar damage bill he sent her for a slight "indentation" on his new car.

Morgan Boyd is repeating Ted Haley's trick of last year: writing his name on the menus of the campus hangouts. Why? It's his date strategy.

Bud Zerner says he's pinned arbitrarily. Get out your dictionary!

The Bell finally tolled and now John McCoy is pinned. Other pinnings: Lolly Call and Roger Stark, Anna Keelon and Bud McCarty, Opal Owens and Walter Lee Eades.

Wearily Plock and Charlie Wachman have been pinned all summer. How could we have overlooked this?

Betty Strunk has a hard time keeping all those anniversaries straight. She only celebrated three last week. Bill Hall has trouble of another kind: keeping his dates straight.

Patsy Allen and Tommy Underwood have at last broken up. Okay, Paul, it's set!

Janice Rose has Ben Jackson's ring. Looks like they're going steady.

Dal Thorpe is getting candy kisses instead of the real variety.

Hank Locke, Patt Hall night-owl, is on the prowl again. Residents are urged to keep their shades down.

Jess Bollinger and Sue Cooper are a constant twosome.

Who's going to win the race with Tilly McCarty—General John Owens or Craig Rice?

Harold Hunt was sharp as a tack at the Xavier game in his cap and duster.

Looks like Hal "Dooney" Johnson has finally caught a winner in a certain Memphis belle named "Kirk" Kirkpatrick.

Howard Mayhew and Jo Ed Mainous seem to enjoy sailing around the campus in Howard's yellow putt-putt.

Jackie Cotton and Bill Hanna have announced their plans for a December wedding.

TELL THEM IT'S A SORORITY HOUSE, THEY'LL MAKE BETTER TIME.

Cookin' With Gaskin

Our hats should go off to the University of Louisville. This past summer U. of L. and the National Broadcasting Company joined resources to give radio-assisted correspondence courses.

It was the "first time in history that college credit had been given for listening to a commercial radio station broadcast and passing an examination based on what the broadcast presented," according to the Cardinal, U. of L.'s newspaper. The summer experiment worked so well that now a full academic year's work has been planned for broadcasting.

Ball State Teacher's College is really on the ball. The Student Executive Council and Alpha Phi Omega, national scouting honorary, are cooperating in a drive to provide an official flag for Ball State.

The Cavalier Daily, official newspaper of the University of Virginia, ran an article recently about two young men who involved themselves in a political argument concerning Dewey and States Rights. The young men evidently ended up in something a little worse than a verbal fight. Fortunately no one was hurt.

The Cavalier Daily took the stand that although the young men endangered their standing as gentlemen at least some of the students there were becoming actively interested in vital national affairs.

The Brewster-Yeager duo is becoming more frequent.

Couple of the week—Ted Miles and Betty Behlan.

Jeanette Blair has broken up with John Ladenburger and has transferred her loyalty to the Rebels at Transy.

The dancin' Dells are really rushing little "Pill" Wilson.

Eli Jackson has been seeing quite a lot of Mary Odell.

Unpinned: Sylvia Mayer and Beebe Caldwell, Pinsky Saffell and Bob Mosely.

Old high school flames being revived: Sybil Carey and Roy Moreland; Ann Kirtley and Al Wieman; Bobby Ann Rouse and Irvin Scrivener.

Lee Dold was the only girl on campus to have two invitations to Sunday dinner at the Sigma Nu House. K. K. West won her affection for the meal at least, but she was seen at the game Saturday night and at church Sunday morning with King Rice.

That sweet smellin' pipe and new hair cut are sure bringing in votes for Congressman Tommy Underwood.

And now 'til we meet again, we say "ta-ta", and let's stay friends.

Remember when you see your name, Your pals, not us, have caused your fame.

"IS . . . —GOOD FOOD, GOOD WINE, GOOD COMPANY. —THOUGHTS."

One girl signed out at 2:30 and in at 3:30. She'd gone to the Tea House with friends. (And we thought we were crazy.)

Then there was the freshman who was worried about the dating problem, and how to entertain her man. She asked if a flashlight was considered a well-lighted area.
